GLOBAL STOCK INDEX

DJIA	Wall Street's major indexes fell on Monday, weighed down by a weak U.S. construction spending report and declines in healthcare shares, as an initial rally on optimism over a U.S.-China trade deal faded. U.S. construction spending unexpectedly fell in December as investment in both private and public projects dropped, leading economists to expect that the government will trim its economic growth estimate for the fourth quarter. Before turning negative, stocks had climbed following a report that U.S. President Donald Trump and Chinese President Xi Jinping could reach a formal trade deal at a summit around March 27. Optimism over the world's two largest economies reaching a trade truce already has been a significant factor fueling the market's rally since late December, along with investors' belief that the Federal Reserve will not be aggressive in raising interest rates. The S&P 500 remains up more than 11 percent in 2019. The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 206.67 points, or 0.79 percent, to 25,819.65, the S&P 500 lost 10.88 points, or 0.39 percent, to 2,792.81 and the Nasdaq Composite dropped 17.79 points, or 0.23 percent, to 7,577.57. Levine and other market watchers also pointed to the 2,800 level for the S&P 500 as a key technical level. The benchmark index rose as high as 2,816.88 during the session.
Nikkei	Japan's Nikkei rose 1 percent to a fresh three-month high on Monday, as companies with exposure to China rallied on signs Beijing and Washington were closing in on a trade deal to end their bitter nearly year-long tariff dispute. The Nikkei share average gained 1.02 percent, or 219.35 points, to 21,822.04, the highest since Dec. 5. The Topix's 26 subsectors were up, with machinery, chip-related firms relying on demand from China leading the charge. Yaskawa Electric Corp jumped 5.1 percent, Fanuc Corp rose 3.5 percent, Advantest Corp rallied 3.5 percent and Sumco Corp advanced 4.2 percent. Komatsu Ltd added 3.2 percent and Hitachi Construction Machinery rose 3.2 percent. The Wall Street Journal reported Washington could lift most or all of its tariffs on Beijing while a summit between U.S. President Donald Trump and his Chinese counterpart Xi Jinping to sign a final trade deal could happen later this month. That followed comments from Trump on Friday that he had asked China to immediately remove all tariffs on U.S. agricultural products because trade talks were progressing well. He also delayed previously scheduled plans to impose 25 percent tariffs on Chinese goods.
Kospi	South Korea's KOSPI stock index fell on Monday after the summit between North Korea and the United States collapsed last week, while investors moved to the Chinese market amid hopes that the world's two biggest economies were close to striking a trade deal later this month. The Korean closed flat, while the benchmark bond yield rose. The Wall Street Journal reported on Sunday U.S. President Donald Trump and Chinese President Xi Jinping could reach a formal trade deal at a summit around March 27, given progress in talks between the two countries China's blue-chip index was up nearly 1 percent, while Hong Kong's Hang Seng index added 0.6 percent. The KOSPI index ended 4.78 points, or 0.22 percent, lower at 2,190.66 points, extending its loss to a second session. South Korean financial markets resumed trading on Monday after a public holiday on Friday. South Korean stocks weakened as the disappointment from the collapse of the second summit between the United States and North Korea froze investor sentiment, while the risk appetite in Asian emerging markets was focused on Chinese markets on signs of a possible trade deal between the U.S. and China, said Lee Won, an analyst at Bookook Securities. MSCI to quadruple the weighting of Chinese mainland shares in its global benchmarks, also boosting Chinese stock market, which may have led to foreign investment switching out of the Korean market, Lee added. Global index provider MSCI will quadruple the weighting of Chinese mainland shares in its global benchmarks later this year, it said on Thursday, potentially drawing more than $80 billion of fresh foreign inflows to the world's second-biggest economy. Shares of South Korean firms with exposure to North Korea fell after the second summit between U.S. President Donald Trump and North Korean leader Kim Jong Un collapsed on Thursday over sanctions, raising concerns about the future of their denuclearisation negotiations.

Hang Seng

● Shares in Hong Kong rose on Monday, closing at their highest level in more than eight months, as Washington and Beijing were said to be moving closer to reaching a deal to end their trade war. The Hang Seng index rose 0.51 percent to 28,959.59 points, its highest close since June 25. The Hang Seng China Enterprises index gained 0.6 percent to 11,575.53.

The sub-index of the Hang Seng tracking energy shares rose 0.3 percent, while the IT sector rose 2.64 percent, the financial sector ended 0.36 percent higher and the property sector rose 0.52 percent. The United States and China appear close to a deal that would roll back U.S. tariffs on at least $200 billion worth of Chinese goods, as Beijing makes pledges on structural economic changes and eliminates retaliatory tariffs on U.S. goods, a source briefed on negotiations told Reuters on Sunday.

The top gainer on the Hang Seng was CSPC Pharmaceutical Group Ltd, which rose 4.37 percent, while the biggest loser was China Mobile Ltd, which fell 2.68 percent.

China's main Shanghai Composite index closed up 1.12 percent at 3,027.58 points, while the blue-chip CSI300 index ended up 1.18 percent.

Around the region, MSCI's Asia ex-Japan stock index was firmer by 0.18 percent, while Japan's Nikkei index closed up 1.02 percent.

The yuan was quoted at 6.6981 per U.S. dollar at 08:22 GMT, 0.14 percent firmer than the previous close of 6.7078.

● Chinese stocks surged on Monday, adding to recent gains after reports that Washington and Beijing are close to reaching a deal to end their year-long trade war, and as China prepared for the opening of its annual session of parliament.

At the midday break, China's benchmark Shanghai Composite was 2.6 percent higher, breaking through the 3,000-point level to end the morning at 3,073.03 points.

The index has gained more than 20 percent so far this year.

The blue-chip CSI300 index rose even more, adding 3 percent to 3,862.01 points.

In Hong Kong, Chinese H-shares rose 1.88 percent at 11,723.25, while the Hang Seng Index was up 1.16 percent at 29,147.64.

The smaller Shenzhen index was up 3.52 percent and the start-up board ChiNext Composite index was higher by 4.71 percent.

The rise in the Shanghai Composite follows the strongest weekly gains for the index in more than 4 years last week, powered by expectations for government stimulus and policy support, renewed optimism about U.S.-China trade talks, and the announcement by global index provider MSCI that it will quadruple the weighting of Chinese A-shares in its global benchmarks later this year.
