

Daily Outlook

GLOBAL STOCK INDEX

DJIA	World equity markets advanced broadly on Wednesday after U.S. data again showed risk-friendly low inflation, which weakened the dollar, while Boeing shares gained even as the United States said it would ground the company's 737 MAX aircraft. Shares in Europe rose on investor optimism that British lawmakers would reject leaving the European Union without a deal. A late night vote in Parliament ruled out a potentially disorderly 'no-deal' Brexit under any circumstances. Trading in Boeing was volatile but another benign reading on inflation bolstered risk appetite and sent Wall Street's fear gauge, the CBOE Volatility Index, to its lowest point since October. U.S. producer prices edged barely higher in February, in the smallest annual increase since June 2017, the latest sign of tame inflation that supports the Federal Reserve's "patient" approach to future interest rate hikes. Other data showed new orders for U.S.-made capital goods increased by the most in six months in January and shipments also rose, but business spending on equipment remained soft, leaving forecasts for weak first-quarter economic growth intact. Boeing gained for the first time since Sunday's crash of a 737 MAX 8 jet in Ethiopia. Its shares retreated for part of the session after first Canada and then the United States said they were grounding 737 MAX jets, following steps already taken by Europe and other nations. The stock closed up 0.5 percent. The grounding gives Boeing time to address any problems and not face another potential disaster, said Tim Ghriskey, chief investment strategist at Inverness Counsel in New York. U.S. stocks advanced broadly with all 11 of the S&amp;P 500's sectors rising, boosted by health care and energy, which also lifted shares in Europe. Economic data still suggests an "OK" economy but analysts' estimates of corporate profits are slowing, which is worrisome, said Michael Geraghty, equity strategist at Cornerstone Capital Group in New York. A Fed on hold for hiking rates suggests concern about economic growth, which can be seen in a narrowing gap between 10-year and two-year U.S. Treasury yields, Geraghty said. An inverted yield curve historically has been an indicator of recession. MSCI's gauge of stocks across the globe gained 0.51 percent while the FTSEurofirst 300 index of leading European shares closed up 0.69 percent. On Wall Street, the Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 148.23 points, or 0.58 percent, to 25,702.89. The S&amp;P 500 gained 19.4 points, or 0.69 percent, to 2,810.92 and the Nasdaq Composite added 52.37 points, or 0.69 percent, to 7,643.41. The pound rose on expectations lawmakers would reject a no-deal Brexit and gained further after the motion in Parliament paved the way for a new vote to delay departure from the EU.
Nikkei	Japan's Nikkei ended lower on Wednesday as weak machinery orders dragged down shares of machinery makers and exporters, and investors worried about Britain's exit from the European Union took profits. Financial stocks, which benefit from higher yields, also underperformed as U.S. yields tumbled under pressure from weak inflation data, supporting expectations that the U.S. Federal Reserve will hold interest rates steady this year. The Nikkei share average ended 1.0 percent lower to 21,290.24 points, after surging 1.8 percent the previous day. Japanese machinery orders fell in January at the fastest pace in four months as the U.S.-China tariff war hit global trade and dented demand from the country's auto and telecommunications equipment sectors.
Kospi	South Korea's KOSPI stock index ended lower on Wednesday as investors cautiously watched the development of U.S.-China trade talks, while select aviation shares dragged. Both the Korean won and the benchmark bond yield fell. The Seoul stock market's main KOSPI ended down 8.77 points or 0.41 percent to 2,148.41 points. The United States and China may be in the final weeks of discussions to hammer out a deal to ease their tit-for-tat tariff dispute, U.S. Trade Representative Robert Lighthizer said on Tuesday, but he cautioned that major issues remained. Some of South Korea's airline stocks stumbled in the aftermath of crash of Boeing's 737 MAX 8 jet in Ethiopia; shares of T'way Air closed down 4.3 percent, while Korean Air Lines and JejuAir shrank 2.5 percent and 3.4 percent, respectively. Shares of YG Entertainment jumped 5.2 percent after the agency cancelled contract with scandal-hit singer Seungri, who was charged for providing prostitutes to investors.

Hang Seng & Shanghai

➤ Hong Kong stocks dropped on Wednesday, as investors turned cautious ahead of yet another make-or-break parliamentary vote on Brexit while awaiting more news on the progress of Sino-U.S. trade negotiations.

The Hang Seng index fell 0.4 percent, to 28,807.45, while the China Enterprises Index lost 0.5 percent, to 11,405.82 points.

Risk appetite had soured after British lawmakers crushed Prime Minister Theresa May's European Union divorce deal, forcing parliament to decide within days whether to back a no-deal Brexit or seek a last-minute delay.

Investors were also waiting for developments on the Sino-U.S. trade talks.

The United States and China may be in the final weeks of discussions to hammer out a deal to ease their tit-for-tat tariffs dispute, U.S. Trade Representative Robert Lighthizer said on Tuesday.

The sub-index of the Hang Seng tracking energy shares dipped 0.4 percent, while the IT sector dipped 1.21 percent, the financial sector ended 0.2 percent lower and the property sector dipped 0.26 percent.

The top gainer on the Hang Seng was Sunny Optical Technology Group Co Ltd, which gained 1.89 percent, while the biggest loser was Hengan International Group Company Ltd, which fell 4.53 percent.

➤ China stocks ended lower on Wednesday, as caution prevailed ahead of yet another make-or-break parliamentary vote on Brexit, while investors awaited more news on the progress of Sino-U.S. trade negotiations.

The blue-chip CSI300 index fell 0.8 percent, to 3,724.19 points, while the Shanghai Composite Index closed down 1.1 percent at 3,026.95 points.

Risk appetites had soured after British lawmakers crushed Prime Minister Theresa May's European Union divorce deal, forcing the parliament to decide within days whether to back a no-deal Brexit or seek a last-minute delay.

The United States and China may be in the final weeks of discussions to hammer out a deal to ease their tit-for-tat tariffs dispute, U.S. Trade Representative Robert Lighthizer said on Tuesday.

Signs that industrial capital is exiting equities after the rebound also weighed on the market.

Major shareholders and top managers at leading firms announced a raft of stake-cut plans recently, including those of telecommunications giant ZTE and Wens Foodstuff Group Co Ltd

Shares of Wens Foodstuff, the biggest start-up in terms of market value, tumbled the maximum allowed 10 percent, sending the tech-heavy start-up board ChiNextP sharply lower.

The start-up index lost 4.5 percent for the day, its worst in five months.
