

Daily Outlook

GLOBAL STOCK INDEX

DJIA

U.S. stocks closed near record highs on Friday after the largest U.S. bank, JPMorgan Chase & Co, soothed worries that the first-quarter earnings season would dampen Wall Street's big rally back from last year's slump.

The S&P 500 is now within a percent of September's record closing high, and the S&P 500 Total Return Index, which includes reinvested dividends, in fact regained record levels, recovering ground lost after a punishing sell-off in the closing months of the year which brought the benchmark index within a rounding error of bear market territory.

Since then, the three major indexes notched their best quarterly gains in nearly a decade in the first quarter, but have spent April in a holding pattern ahead of first-quarter earnings season.

JPMorgan, effectively jump-starting the quarterly earnings reporting season that will dominate investor sentiment in coming weeks, blew past analyst estimates, easing fears that slowing economic growth could weigh on its results. Its stock rose 4.7% and led a broad rally in bank stocks.

Analyst now expect S&P 500 companies to show a 2.3% year-on-year decline in earnings, slightly improved from their last reading, per Refinitiv data. But first-quarter profit is still seen logging its first annual contraction since 2016.

However, of the 29 companies in the S&P 500 that have reported thus far, 79.3% have come in above analyst expectations.

Walt Disney Co jumped 11.5% to an all-time high, providing the biggest boost to the Dow and the S&P 500 after pricing its upcoming streaming service.

Streaming rival Netflix Inc slid 4.5%.

The Nasdaq and the Dow are both about 1.5% below their previous record highs.

For the week, both the S&P 500 and the Nasdaq showed their third straight gains, while the Dow posted a nominal weekly loss.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 269.25 points, or 1.03%, to 26,412.3, the S&P 500 gained 19.09 points, or 0.66%, to 2,907.41 and the Nasdaq Composite added 36.81 points, or 0.46%, to 7,984.16.

Of the 11 major sectors in the S&P 500, all but healthcare ended the session in positive territory.

Nikkei

Japan's Nikkei share average inched up to close at a four-month high on Friday, but was little changed for the week, as many investors stayed on the sidelines ahead of the U.S. and domestic earnings season and an upcoming 10-day holiday in Japan.

The benchmark Nikkei closed at 21,870.56, up 159.18 points, or 0.7 percent, its highest level since December 5.

However, the broader market was not as rosy as the Nikkei might suggest, with the Topix index dropping 0.1 percent to 1605.40.

The Nikkei/Topix (NT) ratio edged up to 13.62, its second highest level on record, after 13.71 touched in late December.

The benchmark Nikkei was buoyed by a couple of heavyweight stocks.

Fast Retailing Co Ltd soared 7.9 percent to contribute a hefty 162 points, or 0.7 percentage point, to the Nikkei.

The operator of Uniqlo slightly cut its full-year profit forecast after unusually warm weather forced it to slash prices for winter clothes, but the number will still be a record high as its business in China continues to be strong.

SoftBank Group Corp jumped 4.9 percent to boost the Nikkei by 59 points, or 0.3 percentage point, after Uber Technologies Inc filed for an initial public offering, paving the way for the U.S ride-sharing company to go public next month. SoftBank is Uber's biggest investor.

To mark the ascension of Japan's new emperor, the government has declared an unprecedented 10-day holiday from April 27 to May 6, which will be the longest break ever for Japanese stocks and bonds.

Kospi

South Korea's KOSPI stock index ended higher on Friday for the 11th consecutive session, the longest rally since July 2009, boosted by foreign net purchase. The Korean won held steady while the benchmark bond yield rose.

The Seoul stock market's main KOSPI rose 9.01 points, or 0.41 percent, to end at 2,233.45 points.

Shares of drugmakers that manufacture morning-after pill rise after South Korean court ruled abortion ban is unconstitutional.

For the week, the KOSPI gained 1.08 percent.

Foreigners were net buyers of 249.9 billion won ($219.31 million) worth of shares on the main board.

The won was quoted at 1,139.4 per dollar on the onshore settlement platform, steady from its previous close at 1,139.4.

In offshore trading, the won was quoted at 1,139.0 per U.S. dollar, up 0.2 percent from the previous day, while in one-year non-deliverable forward trading its one-month contract was quoted at 1,138.1 per dollar.

 MSCI's broadest index of Asia-Pacific shares outside Japan was down 0.02 percent, after U.S. stocks trod water. Japanese stocks rose 0.73 percent.
 The KOSPI has risen 9.43 percent so far this year, and fell 0.5 percent in the previous 30 trading sessions.
 The current price-to-earnings ratio is 12.10, the dividend yield is 1.28 percent and the market capitalisation is 1,242.04 trillion won.

Hang Seng & Shanghai

➤ Hong Kong stocks reversed earlier losses to close higher on Friday after better-than-expected exports data on the mainland, and as data showed China banks extended far more-than-expected new yuan loans as Beijing strives to bolster growth.
 The Hang Seng index closed up 0.2 percent at 29,909.76 points, while the China Enterprises Index gained 0.4 percent to 11,659.84 points.
 For the week, HSI slipped 0.1 percent, while HSCE dipped 0.3 percent.
 China's exports rebounded in March, but imports shrank for a fourth straight month and at a sharper pace, painting a mixed picture of the economy, as trade talks with the United States reach their endgame.
 Investors are hoping for more signs of economic recovery in China to temper worries about slowing global growth, after the International Monetary Fund (IMF) this week downgraded its 2019 world outlook for the third time.
 Chinese banks extended 1.69 trillion yuan ($251.69 billion) in net new yuan loans in March, up sharply from February and far more than expected, as policymakers push lenders to support struggling smaller companies and shore up the slowing economy.
 Analysts polled by Reuters had predicted new yuan loans of 1.2 trillion yuan in March, up from 885.8 billion yuan in February.

➤ Shanghai stocks recouped losses to end flat on Friday, as better-than-expected exports brought some relief to investors looking for signs of stabilization in the world's second-largest economy.
 The blue-chip CSI300 index fell 0.2 percent, to 3,988.62 points, while the Shanghai Composite Index ended flat at 3,188.63 points.
 For the week, SSEC fell 1.8 percent, while CSI300 also shed 1.8 percent, snapping a four-week winning streak.
 China's exports rebounded in March, but imports shrank for a fourth straight month and at a sharper pace, painting a mixed picture of the economy, as trade talks with the United States reach their endgame.
 Investors are hoping for more signs of economic recovery in China to temper worries about slowing global growth, after the IMF this week downgraded its 2019 world outlook for the third time.
 A bigger-than-expected slowdown in China's economy is among key risks to global growth, International Monetary Fund Deputy Managing Director Mitsuhiro Furusawa warned, as G20 finance leaders gather to discuss a darkening world economic outlook.
 The A-share market rally this year is mainly attributed to valuations expansion rather than a pick-up in corporate earnings, CICC pointed out.
