GLOBAL MARKETS & ECONOMIES | WEEKLY ECONOMIC INDICATORS | CURRENCIES | PRECIOUS METAL | O I L |

GLOBAL ECONOMIES	<ul> <li>Lower gasoline prices pulled Canada's annual inflation rate in January down to 1.4 percent from 2.0 percent in December, reinforcing market expectations that imminent interest rate hikes are off the table.</li> <li>Euro zone economic sentiment dipped for an eighth consecutive month to a new two-year low in February as managers in industry became more downbeat about inventories, order books and production expectations.</li> <li>The U.S. goods trade deficit widened sharply in December as slowing global demand and a strong dollar weighed on exports, another sign that economic growth slowed in the fourth quarter.</li> <li>The United States and China still have hard work ahead to reach a trade deal to end a dispute that U.S. Trade Representative Robert Lighthizer told a Congressional hearing on Wednesday was the "most severe" Washington trade policy makers had faced.</li> <li>North Korean leader Kim Jong Un and U.S. President Donald Trump met in Vietnam on Wednesday for a second summit that the United States hopes will persuade North Korea to give up its nuclear weapons in exchange for promises of peace and development.</li> <li>The Federal Reserve will stop shrinking its $4 trillion balance sheet later this year, Fed Chairman Jerome Powell said on Wednesday, ending a process that investors say works at cross-purposes with the Fed's current pause on interest-rate hikes.</li> </ul>
GLOBAL MARKETS	<ul> <li>The S&amp;P 500 closed down slightly on Wednesday but well above its session low after testimonies to U.S. Congress from trade and central bank officials as well as President Donald Trump's former lawyer brought few major surprises.</li> <li>Also on Wednesday, Trump's former lawyer Michael Cohen called the president a "conman" but said he had no direct evidence Trump colluded with Moscow to bolster his White House campaign ahead of the 2016 election.</li> </ul>
FOREX	The safe-haven dollar rose from a three-week low on Wednesday, as investors grew cautious about U.S. trade talks with China after the country's trade representative said there are still serious issues to work through to secure a deal and ensure that future agreements are met. The greenback was trading lower before Trade Representative Robert Lighthizer made his comments before the House Ways and Means Committee on Wednesday at a hearing on U.SChina issues.  Lighthizer detailed a long road ahead to overhaul trade dealings between the world's two biggest economies.  The greenback's outlook, however, remained negative after Federal Reserve Chairman Jerome Powell emphasized patience on raising U.S. interest rates in two days of testimony before the U.S. Congress.  Money markets have ruled out rate hikes for the remainder of the year with an 80-percent probability of a rate cut by early 2020.  In afternoon trading, the dollar index was up 0.2 percent at 96.166, after falling to a three-week low.  The euro was down 0.2 percent at $1.1366, while the dollar rose 0.2 percent versus the yen to 110.825.  U.S. economic data were mixed overall on Wednesday, backing expectations the Fed will be on hold throughout the year.  The yen and Swiss franc earlier gained after Pakistan said it had shot down two Indian jets, sending investors out of riskier markets and into safer assets. The Japanese and Swiss currencies both tend to appreciate during bouts of political and economic uncertainty.  Pakistan said it downed the planes a day after Indian warplanes struck inside its territory for the first time since a war in 1971.  Elsewhere, investors watched sterling closely as it rose above $1.33 for the first time in five months. It was last up 0.4 percent at $1.3302.  The pound had rallied on Tuesday after British Prime Minister Theresa May offered lawmakers the chance to vote on delaying Brexit, raising the chance of avoiding a chaotic nodeal departure from the European Union.

GOLD	Gold prices fell to their lowest in nearly two weeks on Wednesday, pressured by a mild revival in the dollar after comments from the U.S. Trade Representative dampened expectations of a quick resolution to the U.SChina trade dispute.  Spot gold slipped 0.8 percent to $1,318.64 per ounce at 2:13 p.m. EST (1912 GMT). The yellow metal fell to its lowest since Feb. 15 at $1,316.43 earlier in the session.  U.S. gold futures settled down 0.5 percent at $1,321.2 per ounce.  The dollar gained 0.2 percent on safe-haven bids after U.S. Trade Representative Robert Lighthizer said Washington's issues with China are "too serious" to be resolved by Chinese promises to purchase more U.S. goods.  A strong dollar, which had been the preferred safe-haven currency during the U.SChina trade dispute, makes gold costlier for holders of other currencies.  Gold hit a more than 10-month peak last week and has gained about 15 percent since mid-August 2018, when it touched a more than one-and-half-year low.  Providing a solid foundation for bullion was Federal Reserve Chairman Jerome Powell's reiteration that the central bank would remain "patient" while deciding the future of U.S. interest rates.  Investors are also monitoring the tensions between India and Pakistan, with the two countries engaged in retaliatory attacks.  Separately, spot palladium dropped 2.5 percent to $1,521.50 per ounce after setting a record high of $1,565.09 in the previous session.  The autocatalyst metal has climbed over 20 percent so far this year on a widening supply tightness, while threats of strikes by mineworkers in South Africa added further support.  Among other precious metals, silver fell 1.5 percent to $15.70 per ounce, while platinum gained 0.9 percent to $864, having earlier hit $871.94, its highest since Nov. 8.
OIL	Oil futures gained about 2 percent on Wednesday after U.S. crude inventories unexpectedly plummeted and as Saudi Arabia brushed aside comments from U.S. President Donald Trump seeking to keep oil prices from climbing.  U.S. crude stockpiles fell 8.6 million barrels last week, in contrast to expectations for an increase of 2.8 million barrels, government data showed.  The drawdown, which breaks five consecutive weeks of builds, was due to net crude imports slowing to a record low of 2.6 million barrels per day in the wake of declining OPEC production and U.S. sanctions against Venezuela.  U.S. crude futures settled at $56.94 a barrel, up $1.44, or 2.6 percent, the biggest daily percentage rise in nearly four weeks. Brent crude futures rose $1.18, or 1.8 percent, to end at $66.39 a barrel.  Saudi Energy Minister Khalid al-Falih said the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries and its partners were already "taking it easy" in response to a tweet from Trump on Monday, who told the group to "relax" on production cuts.  Oil prices have risen more than 20 percent so far this year after OPEC and non-member producer allies agreed to cut output for six months starting in January to avoid the build-up of a global surplus particularly as U.S. crude production booms.  Falih said the group may need to extend its agreement to curb output until the end of 2019.  U.S. crude output has set record highs for two straight weeks, hitting 12.1 million bpd last week, according to government data.
